Attired in a costume of deep purple velvet, the defendant watched her counsel, Attorney R. P. Talbot, question the jury men. Her hat was a singularly rich creation. Possibly never before has any-

BURGLARY TRIAL IS SET FOR TOMORROW.
(From Sunday's Daily)
Fred Chanler, charged with burglary at Seligman, will be placed upon trial in the Superior Court before Judge Frank O. Smith at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. Immediately after the completion of this case, May Clark will be tried upon the charge of murdering Charles Pitts in the same town.

Presuming that the Fernandez murder trial would wind up at noon yesterday, Judge Smith had previously announced that Chanler would be placed upon trial yesterday afternoon and that in order to complete this case the same day, an evening session would be called.

But the Fernandez case failed to go to the jury until 6 p. m. Judge Smith then decided to let matters run as they would. According to the calendar, the May Clark case should have started upon December 12 and the Chanler case preceded that one. The Fernandez case has, however, upset all calculations. In all five days have been occupied, a figure far in excess of that which was anticipated.

one accused of murder in the local court displayed such marked unconcern. She gazed steadily at the testifier as each witness told his or her knowledge of the tragedy. After adjournment for the day was called, she laughed and jollied with several of her friends.

The case was called at 2 o'clock. Counsel for both the defense and prosecution united in rushing matters along and at 3:30 o'clock the first witness for the prosecution, Maria Harvey, was placed upon the stand.

The witness was an inmate of the adjoining room to the one occupied by the accused in the red light district of Seligman. She stated that the victim of the shooting, Charles E. Pitts, had knocked upon her door, that she went to it and asked him to go away.

A few minutes later, she declared, she heard a muffled shot. Rushing to the door she opened it and found lying upon the ground flat upon his back, Pitts. He was groaning at the time, she said, and no one was around. In terror she returned to the room and closed it. When she again opened it she found two men bending over Pitts' body.

Upon cross-examination she said that Pitts was intoxicated. Questioned regarding the relations between the accused and dead man, she replied that May Clark had instructed him to keep away.

Jack McCay said that a few minutes before the shooting occurred he had sat upon a tank in the rear of Frank Dickerson's saloon, conversing with May Clark. As he entered the saloon he heard the shot.

After the shooting, Pitts was placed aboard a special train and rushed to Los Angeles where medical aid had previously been summoned. But the victim died en route. May Clark voluntarily surrendered herself to the authorities. At the preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Shively at Ash Fork she charged that Pitts had assaulted her. In defense she gripped the gun which she had previously concealed about her person and, placing the muzzle to his stomach, pulled the trigger.

The testimony produced at this hearing resulted in her acquittal. This verdict was, however, unsatisfactory to the county officials. Another complaint was sworn out and she was arraigned before Justice of the Peace McLane in this city. She was then bound over to the action of the Superior Court in $5,000 bail. The bond was produced two hours later.

The members of the jury are: A. W. Brownley, C. N. Evans, F. T. Dickinson, Marion Rodgers, C. P. Hillman, Robert Brown, Henry Bosley, Clarence Echert, Louis Schrade, James Ralston, W. H. Merritt and W. W. Mays.
